

Proposed restrictions on XM Satellite Radio interferes with the open competition among information providers that in the immediate and long term benefit me and all other consumers. I like XM Radio because its services are more comprehensive than are the services provided by regular broadcast radio. The federal government should not create biased restraint of trade regulations that permit broadcast radio to perform in a protected, non-competitive environment. DO NOT RESTRICT XM RADIO -- the free market can regulate itself.